"Dubois" - meaning - "from wood" or "of the wood"

"One hundred and fifty euros" said the French brocante (antiques salesperson) in his broken English. "No Way" I replied in my even worse schoolboy French. The bargaining went on until we finally reached an amicable compromise, both grinned as we shook on the deal and the prized antique was mine.

It's the thrill of hunting for ancient treasures, the French way of life and bargaining with people of this gregarious yet savvy Gallic race that keeps us coming back.

We are Chris and Marja Wood, two marketing professionals who, for many years, have shared a love of quality French antiques and a synergy with French culture. Marja has a background in the arts and interior design and I am an experienced negotiator and salesperson who enjoys the simple art of interacting with others. We have a deep connection with France and a passion for it's culture as well as with family who live in the Loire Valley region of France. This makes communication and travel much simpler and has allowed for this passion to evolve into a business.

Marja and I realize that many others in New Zealand are equally keen on Art Deco, Art Nouveau and selected 16th-21st century pieces, so we have decided to bring some back home and now you too can create an authentic "French look" for your home.

We are proud to present the 2014/15 Dubois collection of French Antiques, vintage and contemporary interior pieces sourced directly from France.
